ates a Sensation.

ROME. July 9.-A great sensation has been caused here by the action of the Vatican authorities towards the Princess Joseph Rospigliosi, an American. Her husband is head of an ancient family of clerical nobility and his brother is commandant of the Papal Noble Guard. On August 26, 1901, Prince Rospigliosi married here Mrs. Marie Jennings Reid Parkhurst, of Washington, the divorced wife of Colonel Frederick Parkhurst, of Bangor Maine. The ceremony was civil and hence was not recognized by the Princess Rospigliosi who is now on the point of confinement, engaged an English Blue Sister as a nurse, and the latter took up her duties. But Cardinal Macchi, Secretary of Apostolic Briefs, hearing of this, forbade the sister to fulfill her duties on the ground that the marriage was non-existant. The Prince was furious and exerted all his influence to overcome the scruples of the Church, but without avail. Eventually he was obliged to send to England for a nurse.

The incident is expected to have important developments.

When the news of the marriage of Mrs. Parkhurst to Prince Rospiglios reached the United States it was asserted that at first the Vatican refused to searction the marriage, because Mrs. Parkhurst was a divorced woman, but ns the Prince declared she should be his wife with or without the consent of the Church, sanction was finally given. Mrs. Parkhurst is a granddaughter of Samuel Chester Reid, who commanded the American privateer, Brigadier-Gen-eral Armstrong in the battle of Fayal in 1812. On her mother's side she is descended from the Rowan family of Kentucky. About ten years ago in Washington she met Mr. Parkhurst, who is a member of the Maine Legislature, and of Governor Hill's staff, with the rank of colonel. The couple were married and lived happily for a time in Bangor. They had two children. Several years ago they became estranged and Colone Parkhurst sued for divorce. vorce was granted and Mrs. Parkhurst left the city.

At Bar Harbor she met Prince Joseph, who fell in love with her.

Business.

The great increase in the circulation of the Richmond newspapers is shown most signally in a report just made by Postmaster Knight upon the amount of second-class mall matter handled by the local office during the last four years. Taking the month of June, 1899, when 85,501 pounds of second-class matter was handled, and comparing that with the June just past, when 130,631 pounds was the amount to pass through the office here, it shows that within three years there has been an increase of 50,131 pounds.

CO-ORDINATION OF ALL THE ACADEMIES

Dr. Hatcher Believes it Could and Should Be Done.

SAYS ONE HERE IS FIRST STEP

The First Official Statement Concerning the Boys' School for Richs mond College -- Interview With Dr. Hatcher.

Almost overy morning tells a new story of Richmond's progress. Her advancement is like that of a magnificent army moving in various directions along many roads, and all marching under a many roads, and all marching under a common impulse toward the same end. Already there is much reason for congratulation on the superb educational advantages of the city. There is an admirable public school system, professional schools, business and industrial institutes, and two noble collegiate institutions, Richmond College and the Woman's College. These are all our own, and they work with rare harmony and with an efficiency which fairly entities this city to the honor of being chief among the educational centers of the South. This is a good place to live, and as a citizen said recently, a wonderfully fine place to bring up and educate chilfine place to bring up and educate chil-

But a new educational chairman now enters the field. It is to be known as the Richmond Academy, and is to have its local habitation at the corner of Park Avenue and Lombardy Streets. It is to be established under the authority of Richmond College, and is to have the best support and inspiration of that in-The good friends of Richmond College

The good friends of Richmond College have had this matter under advisement some time, but they are a conservative folk, and have taken no step except after most deliberate reflection. The academy has been one of President Boatwright's fondest dreams for several years, and it is largely due to his successful energy that the movement has now taken shape. The trustees took up the question of an academy some months ago, but no definite action was taken until at the annual meeting in June. At that time it was decided to have an academy to be opened in September, and to occupy temporary quarters on Lombardy Street until permanent buildings can be provided. The present property after thorough renovation will be well adapted to school purposes, having a large study-hall which is quite capacious, besides three recitation rooms. The college has admirable grounds attached to the property, and these will be enclosed and the academy will be allowed to use them for attached to use them for attached to use them for attached to use them academy will be allowed to use them for athletic purposes. It is hoped that money can be secured to provide an up-to-date gymnasium, and also a first-class to-date gymnasium, and also a first-class playground for the use of the academy boys. The trustees of the college committed the management of the sschool to a committee of five. President Boatwright being one, and the other four being trustees. These last are Drs. Pitt and Cooper, and Messrs. J. Taylor Ellyson and J. J. Montague. To this committee has been entrusted the organization and management of the academy. Already plans are on foot for arranging every detail necessary to the successful inauguration of the new enterprise. Everything necessary to the comfort of the students will be arranged. Already Everything necessary to the comfort of the students will be arranged. Already the advertisements of the school have appeared in the city pa z and the committee is now busily at work to make the academy No. 1 and up-to-date in every particular. The principal of this new school is to be a man of the very highest character, rich in scholarship, skilled as a teacher, experienced already in dicipline and administration, and there will be also the tumost care exercised in will be also the utmost care exercised in the choice of the associate teachers. Gentlemen of the college faculty have al-ready indicated their readiness to take part in the academy instruction incidentally or regularly as the interests of the new school may require. It is expected also that instruction can be provided for in the new symmasium to be erected. While the academy will be quite distinct from the college, it can be easily seen that the relations between the two will be cordial and helpful.

DISTINCTLY LOCAL. It is understood that this academy is interded to be distinctly a Richmond school. It will have no boarding department attached, and will in no way com with the several academies in other portions of Virginia, which are now work-ing as secondary schools for Richmond College. The academy cuters the educational arens with thorough good will for all and with the distinct purpose to do the broadest and most distinct foundation work. It is to be in the highest and most general sease a fitting school, intended to equip the youth of the city for college work. While it will naturally work in the interest of Richmond College, it will at once be understood that its training will he equally adapted to the preparation of the youth of the city for entering other colleges. Its course will be sufficiently fiexible and advanced to enable a student to take the master's degree in any other for take the master's degree in any other college in three years, the policy of the academy being to enable the student to enter college as soon as his habits of study, his advancement and his personal development will make it to his advantage to do so. The academy will restrict itself to secondary work, and will do that work thoroughly. In a few days the ourses of instruction will be duly an-This is the first attempt that Richmond College has ever made for the es tablishment of an academy. In its early days it fild have what was called an academic department, which was intended to coach its students which were unable enter its college courses. It will be remembered also that about twenty years age Professor Bartlett Davies started an academy at the corner of Grace and Sec-ond Streets, and had Mr. Morton Mercer. now Dr. Mercer, of West View Baptist Church, as his assistant. Both of these gentlemen were scholarly and they had large patronage, but Mr. Mercer went away to pursue his theological education and Professor Lavies died during the third session. This school was intended as a feeder to Richmond College, but was in no sense under its control, being entirely a private enterprise. The Rich-mond Academy will hold a closer rela-tion with the college and share the benefits of its wise and experienced over sight, while in its organization and its courses of instruction it will be entirely separate. Friends of the new academy are filled with hopefulness and are receiving many assurances of sympathy and

PASTORS A UNIT.
The Baptist pastors of the city spent bout two hours on Monday talking about the academy. They were a unit in its favor, and of their own accord gave the strongest pledges of their favor and help.
The college felt one embarrassment in the founding of this academy. While it felt that it could venture to allow the academy to use its grounds and its building for the period of two years without expense, it did not feel that it had a right to use the permanent funds of the college for its equipment. The committeee having the academy in charge feels the need of $1,000 to equip the building and gymnasium. They will need at least this amount. This sum they will at once undertake to secure from the friends of the new enterprise in Rich-mond. The hope has been expressed that generous friends will come forward said graciously donate this amount, but in graciously donate this amount, but in the event it fails, there will be an appeal made by the committee for funds necessary for this purpose.

THE FIRST STEP.

Dr. Hatcher is a great believer in the co-ordination of all the Baptist academies with Richmond College. He regards the establishment of this academy as one step in this direction.

The other day, with a munificent sum provided by Mr. George B. West, an academy similar in grade and course of instruction to the Richmond academy was started in Newport News.

Dr. Hatcher has just returned from Pennington Gap, in Lee county, where there is an entimusiastic movement in favor of a new academy. The bulk of the money for the first building, which is to cost $6.000, has already been secured.

In closing his talk with the reporter.

In closing his talk with the reporter Dr. Hatcher said: "The real reason why so few of the boys of Virginia receive a collegiate training is because the arrangements for secondary education are so inadequate. It is a demonstrated feet there will be a secondary to the contract of the contract are so inadequate. It is a demonstrated fact that if you can get a youth to pass successfully through a good academy, you will find it easy to get him to take a college course. There is little hope of higher education among our youths unless they can be well grounded in the bottom work of education. Secondary education is the supreme want of this day."

The Asiatic Landslide.

The occasional reports of loss of life or damage by landslides, which are re ceived from various parts of our own country, are indeed dwarfed by the account which Professor Davis gives, in his new book, "Elementary Physical Geography," of an Asiatic landslide and its effects. According to this statement "in September, 1893, a great landslide occurred in the deep valley of one of the upper branches of the Ganges in the Himalayas. In three days 800,000,000 tens of rock fell with deafening noise darkening the air with dust, leaving great bare cavity with steep wails several thousand feet high to mark its several thousand feet high to mark its source, and building a dam nearly 1,000 feet deep across the narrow valley floor. A lake gradually formed on the up-stream side of the dam and grew to be four miles long before it overflowed about a year after the slide.

"In the meantime the danger that the lake might burst out in a great flood b ing perceived by the British engineers in charge of the public works of India the bridges in the lower valley were re the original the lower set up on the valley sides, 100 or 200 feet above the ordinary river level, indicating the height above which the flood would probably not rise; and a telegraph line was constructed down the valley from the dam, to give prompt warning of th outburst.

"The flood occurred at midnight, August 26-27, 1894. In four hours about 400,000,000 cubic yards of water were dis-charged, cutting down the dam nearly 400 feet, flooding the valley to a dept of from 100 to 170 feet, and rushing for ward with a velocity of twenty mile an hour. Many miles of valley road were washed away. Every vestige of habitation was destroyed in villages habitation was destroyed along the upper Ganges; but so well was the notice of danger given that only one man lost his life, and that because he would not heed the warning."

How Thompson Killed Himself.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO. June 28.— Will Thompson committed suicide pear Boulder, Col., owing to ill-health, Dia-bolism itself must have possessed him, for the deed was executed in a manner that resulted in almost complete anni-hilation. In preparation for the end Thompson took a stick of dynamite from the store of the Champion City Mining Company. Climbing to the highest point of the nearest mountain, Thompson set the fuse on the dynamite stick ablaze. There was on the dynamite stick ablaze. There was spluttering as the line of flame crept closer to the death-dealing instrument. There was a blinding flash and a roar that cohoed and re-echoed down the valley. Electing flesh filled the air, and a little shower of human blood stained the ground where Thompson had stood.

It was some time before he was missed. Then, friends went out to find him. Self-destruction had been feared. After a destruction had been feared. ong hunt the almost fiesh-denuded treast bone and part of a shoulder were found. A shred of clothing near by gave dentification to the first beautiful to the fi identification to the fragmentary remains. The remainder of Thompson's body was never found.—Des Moines
